Food, fuel push living costs up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher retail prices for food, fuels and household services shoved the cost of living up seventenths of one per cent in June before President Nixon froze prices, the government said today. It marked the fifth straight month of sharply higher consumer prices.

The big gains were again led by higher grocery store prices which rose 1.7 per cent in June and were nearly 16 per cent higher than a year ago.

Fruits and vegetables rose 4.9 per cent last month, the sharpest jump since a 5.6 per cent increase in December 1971.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said last month's cost of living figures were collected before the 60-day price freeze went into effect June 13.

Consumer prices rose during the five months of the largely voluntary Phase 3 economic controls at a seasonally adjusted rate of 8.3 per cent, compared to a jump of 3.6 per cent under the 14 months of tighter Phase 2 controls which the Nixon administration lifted in January.

President Nixon's new Phase 4 economic controls lifted the freeze on food immediately and on most other sectors of the economy Aug. 12. This is expected to bring even higher prices in the months ahead.

The seven-tenths of one per cent increase in the June Consumer Price Index was onetenth of one per cent higher than in May. This matched increases in February and April but was two-tenths of one per cent less than the March increase. After seasonal adjustment, the June increase was six-tenths of one per cent, the same as in the previous two months.

Sharply higher prices for gasoline—the third consecutive month—and a big jump in fuel oil prices were mainly responsible for a six-tenths of one per cent hike in the nonfood commodity index. The government called this larger than normal for this time of the year.

Prices also surged higher for used cars, household services, housing and alcoholic beverages. Clothing prices went up instead of dropping as they usually do in June.

The rise in prices pushed the Consumer Price Index up in June to 132.4, a level 5.9 per cent higher than a year ago. This meant it cost consumers $13.24 to buy a basket of goods that cost $10 in the 1967 base period.

In a separate report, the government said average weekly earnings of American workers rose $2.68 in June to $145.13 but real spendable earnings actually declined one-tenth of one per cent.

The big jump in prices for fruits and vegetables accounted for about half the rise in grocery store prices, the government said. Prices also rose for most other food items, including eggs, cereal and bakery products and fish. Fish rose

Thursday night in Lilbourn was the setting for a Kiddie Parade in which all of the contestants went all out for the two top spots. Spectators watched the children as they paraded around downtown Lilbourn. First place in the bicycle or tricycle class went to Renee Westmoreland, 8, and Carla Westmoreland, 6, as the clown and Fido. The two pillow- case- headed creatures entered as "The Shorties" are Chris Little, 8, and Tammy Smith, 9. They took first in the walking class. All of the children are from Lilbourn.

Child hit by car; driver's view blocked

Richard Wrather Jr., 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wrather, Route Two, Box 425, was struck and injured by an automobile about 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the corner of Clayton and Lora Streets when he rode his bike from a vacant field onto the street.

Wrather was treated at the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital for bruises on the head and right thigh and for scratches on the back and released.

Wrather was hit by a car driven by Kenneth Charles Seiler, 23, of 403 Carroll, who was southbound on Clayton at the time of the accident.

Police said Wrather was riding his bicycle on a dirt path which crossed the field, did not stop before entering the street and pulled in front of the car.

Police said Seiler's vision was obstructed by Johnson Grass growing six and a half feet tall on the city right- of- way.

No arrests were made, according to police.

Welfare center may close

The Sikeston Welfare Center may close its doors for the last time July 31, and the Sikeston United Fund may soon follow.

The Sikeston United Fund board of directors met Thursday at the welfare office, 111 N. Scott St., in an attempt to save both organizations.

Mrs. Jewell Allen, coordinator for the Welfare Center and executive secretary of the United Fund is retiring July 31, and a replacement has not been found. Also, on that date the welfare office must vacate its present office. Owner Jim Pharris is taking over the office space to use as a storage area for The Flower Basket, his florist shop.

A search for a location for a new office has not turned up a satisfactory site. Mrs. Allen said the office must be on ground level because some of those helped by the office cannot climb stairs.

Mrs. Allen said the welfare work could be handled on one or two days each week. She said she is willing to continue working on that basis, as long as she does not have to handle the United Fund operations as well.

The board debated whether or not to even continue the United Fund. The fund has not been able to meet its goals and has difficulty finding people willing to work for it. Board members blamed the fund's trouble on lack of community support and a weak and unwieldy corporate structure. The board concluded to continue efforts to keep both organizations functioning.

Racks are empty

The clothing racks were empty today at the Mode O'Day shop clothing store in Midtowner Village Shopping Center after being removed because of smoke damage produced by the fire which destroyed Barkett's Big Star Market Sunday morning. The last of the clothing was removed late Thursday afternoon and sent to a salvage outlet in Memphis. Mrs. Velva Parrish, store manager, said the store walls were drycleaned and the floors scrubbed. The hangers and clothing racks were also cleaned. She said new merchandise should begin arriving today and that she will reopen with partial stock. The store should be fully restocked by next week, she added.

The indecent exposure case against Robert Earl Jarvis, 613 Taylor, was continued to Aug. 1 Wednesday night in City Court. Bond was not forfeited because Jarvis failed to appear in court as stated in Thursday's edition of The Daily Standard.

The court docket from which the story was written said Jarvis had forfeited his bond. However, the docket was in error, apparently because of a breakdown in communication between the court and Jarvis's lawyer.

Judge Jim Sickal said the case had been set for Wednesday and that "as far as I knew it was still set for arraignment, and I had not received a request from anyone that the matter be continued to Aug. 1.

"Since that time I learned that there was evidently some request made that it be continued. However, this request, due to some misunderstanding, was not communicated to me."

Sickal said that since the continuance was requested by Jarvis's attorney, he has set aside the forfeited bond and has had the case continued to Aug. 1.

GOVERNMENT POWER

"Unlimited power is in itself a bad and dangerous thing. Human beings are not competent to exercise it with discretion. God alone can be omnipotent, because His wisdom and His justice are always equal to His power. There is no power on earth so worthy of honor in itself, or clothed with rights to sacred that I Would admit its uncontrolled and all-predominant authority. When I see that the right and means of absolute command are conferred on any power whatever, be it called a people or a king, an aristocracy or a democracy, a monarchy or a republic, I say there is the germ of tyranny, and I seek to live elsewhere, under other laws."

Of course, there are humorous dog stories such as when a little boy was playing in the yard and the neighbor's friendly hound came over and licked him in the face. The frightened youngster's screams brought the dog's owner out on the run.

"Did he bite you?" inquired the owner.

"No, but he tasted me," came the tearful reply.

PROFIT PICTURE

Fewer individual investors are turning to the stock market. Their reluctance isn't due to lack of faith in our system of private enterprise. Rather, the incentive for profit is becoming less obvious, because the government is creating ever steeper capital gains taxes. In order to keep all Americans investing in our economic growth we need an equitable capital gains tax. Not to help the rich: two-thirds of the people who invest in the market have taxable incomes under $15,000.

SAYS 1973 TAX ACTION TO HAVE NEW SITTING

After reviewing some of the tax reform actions in 1969, Laurence N. Woodworth, Chieff of Staff, Joint Committee on Internal Revenue, Taxation, predicted that whatever sort of reform was attempted in 1973 would take place in a different atmosphere than did the former revisions.

Speaking to attendees at Tax Foundation, Inc.'s 24th National Tax Conference, Mr. Woodworth named among possible items on which 1973 discussion might touch: the value added tax; tax simplification; the retirement income credit; tax treatment of annuities; estate and gift taxation; capital gains at death.

LET THE WORLD KNOW

Even the mightiest nation must work to retain its eminence. Its people must produce. They must earn the right to "stay in business". In international affairs, this fundamental rule of existence is more valid today than at anytime in previous history.

No one is more keenly aware of this than the U. S. maritime industry. For years, its leaders have presented to the public and to legislative bodies the case for a strong U. S. merchant fleet. Their efforts have culminated in the 10 - year government - industry shipbuilding program now getting underway. New technology vessels, stressing speed and economy of operation, coupled with the latest techniques of intermodalism and containerization, will be taking to the seas in increasing numbers, along with an expanded U. S. tanker fleet. In other words, the tools of meeting competition in foreign trade are or will be at hand. Their success, however, depends upon acceptance by labor, as well as management of the responsibility of keeping ships moving reliably and on schedule. The U. S. Merchant Marine, no matter how modern its ships, must produce what customers need in the channels of international commerce, or those customers will take their business elsewhere.

By the same token, as the tanker fleet expands to meet the insatiable energy demands of a petroleum hungry nation, it must be permitted to operate with maximum efficiency -- not hamstrug by conflicting and excessively stringent antipollution laws. The question finally comes down to how badly we wish to stay in business as a nation. Utilizing to the fullest the services of a high - technology merchant marine is one of the first steps toward letting the world know tha the U. S. intends to meet the competition of all comers.

WAY TO LOWER PROPERTY TAXES

U.S. property taxes, especially on elderly householders, have become what one study has called "a national scandal". Reportedly, some 6 million homeowners in the older age bracket paid an average of 8.1 per cent of earnings for property taxes in 1970.

Many have assumed that taxpayer pressure will force a reduction in property taxes, but unless there is a leveling off of inflation and a reduction in demand on government, local and national, for its services, the prospects of lower taxes in any category is dim. Costs of public schools--- kindergarten through high school--- are forecast to rise as much as 100 percent during the 1970's. Then too, political experts fear than an across- the- board cut in property taxes would mean windfall profits to property owners in an era of steadily rising land values. The solution to the problem of rising property taxes lies principally in controlling inflation--- i.e. controlling federal government deficit spending of the kind that steadily reduces the value of the dollars with which we pay our property tax bills and all our other bills.

NEWSPAPERMAN SEES TRUTH

Newspaper editors pride themselves on the ability to recognize the truth when they see it. Therefore, a column written by Louis C. Harris, Executive Vice President of Southeastern Newspapers, Inc., and appearing in the August, Georgia, Chronicle- Herald should be of particular interest to those who are concerned over the state of the nation's forest lands.

Mr. Harris, after reading a critique of current forestry practices, which concluded by saying that "the real issue is that we are running out of trees," traveled across the country to take a look at America's forests himself. He observed, "....I flew over and drove through the Douglas fir country of Oregon and the commercial redwood stands of California. I couldn't see the forests for the trees... They towered toward the skies...covered the valleys and the slopes...each an instrumentality in itself in the building of America, and each a progenitor of hundreds of its kind... The harvesting practices of the commercial forest companies which I was privileged to observe on my trip give every evidence not of denuding the land of trees, but of assuring that larger, hardier and greater numbers of trees can be America's legacy. If these professional timber people are permitted to operate their businesses free of government restraints and public opposition which the emotionalism of the amateur conservationists has created they will be able to reseed, replant-- and enable Nature to better regenerate-- new and thriving forest assets for now and years to come."

No higher tribute could be paid to a beleaguered industry that than contained in the words of this knowledgable newspaperman who knows the truth when he sees it.

CAREFUL WITH THAT ROPE!

Of all of the achievements of the free market probably none has been of greater benefit to the consuming public than the development of high- volume, low- markup distribution methods and their application to food retailing. The profit margins of major food retailing systems are so low, running at less than a penny per dollar of sales, that their total elimination would have no material effect on any family's food costs.

If you kick about the cost of food, keep one fact in mind. Each dollar spent by the average supermarket shopper goes for a lot of things other than food. U. S. Department of Agriculture figures show that 28 cents of every supermarket dollar is spent on nonfood items, including such things as health and beauty aids, tobacco, alcoholic beverages, soap and laundry supplies, magazines and books. And so it is that the food retailer, already operating on the smallest of profit margins, ends up collecting a good part of the blame for the rising costs of many things other than food. Ultimately, public criticism or control by a price commission of any segment of the economy or of the prices charged for any product will not solve the problem of inflation. When the public demands that their elected representatives at the federal level control spending and eliminate $20- $40 billion federal deficits, inflation will stop, and we won't need a price commission.

Whatever else we have when we come out of this period of economic control we had better make sure that it includes the private enterprise operation of our retailing system built on the sound foundation of volume sales at low markup. The American people put more food of higher quality and greater variety on their tables at less cost -- 15.6 percent of their take home pay last year -- than any other people in the history of mankind. When we set out to lynch the villain of inflation, it is in our best interests to make darn sure we have the rope around the right neck.

When the boys were seated, she continued, "Answer this question, 'Which tire was flat?'"

SOVIET MUSCLE

One of the major television networks recently carried a film story of Russian military hardware. The film presented a formidable array of intercontinental ballistic and shorter- range missiles, rocket-firing trucks, long- range bombers and fighter aircraft, missile- firing submarines and surface ships, and army tanks that travel submerged under lake and river waters. If any citizen of Republic USA had, doubts about the might of our antagonist, he should have seen the film.

Just viewing it should not cause deep fears but should stir us into action that would call for an even reater defense posture than we have now. Observers have believed for the last few years that our Navy needs modernizing and that we should commission more submarines that are capable of firing long- range missiles. These same observers felt, after being given access to information on our defenses, that we should beef up our ICBM capability and intensify our efforts in the field of conventional military hardware production.

You may ask what an individual citizen can do about this. The answer is simple. He can write his representatives in the Congress and voice his concerns to newspaper editors. If enough concerned citizens take these steps, the response will be forthcoming. In the long run we shall have more adequate defense. One has only to remember the stated objectives of the communist party. In short, the communist leaders say they shall grind us under. None of their dealings in the field of diplomacy should be taken at face value. The time to arm is now. We should remember the old admonition to "keep our powder dry." To try to negotiate differences is commendable, but when one is dealing with the communists it should be done through strength. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

EXCLUSIVE:

New FBI Director, Clarence Kelley, Discusses His 'Promise to America'

WASHINGTON--- For many of us on the outside who have admired the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who have followed and reported closely its imaginative cracking of lethal organized crime, who have cheered its counterintelligence drives against foreign agents as well as home- front forces of evil such as the Ku Klux Klan, this past year has been a rugged one.

So it has for many who have worked inside the bureau for years. All for obvious reasons.

But now the FBI has a permanent director, Clarence Kelley. What does he plan for the agency under his new command? What's his philosophy; What are his views on law enforcement? How does he plan to cooperate with other agencies?

All these questions he answers in his own words, written exclusively for this column as "My Promise to America." Here it is, the first such statement FBI Director Kelley has issued, not ghostwritten but drafted by himself:

By Clarence M. Kelley, Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation

On July 9, 1973, I took the oath of office to become Director of the FBI. Fittingly this was done in Kansas City, Mo., my home town. This capped my career in law enforcement which began Oct. 7, 1940, when I joined the FBI and thereafter served under J. Edgar Hoover until Aug. 28, 1961. After retiring from the FBI, I became chief of police in Kansas City, Mo., where I remained until my return to the FBI.

During that period I saw many changes in law enforcement throughout the land. Some of the changes have been in the development of technologies which have been adopted in order to provide quick responses, more accurate analyses, and to generally better prepare us for the job at hand. More significant, however, has been the development of policies and procedures which make us more effective as law enforcement organizations.

It was literally true when I started my career that the new police officer, and even the new FBI agent, was ill-prepared to perform his duties. We really did not perceive our full mission and lived in a sort of state of isolation which, frankly, was pretty well a state which we chose for ourselves. Rarely did we seek advice and even less frequently did we implement any ideas conveyed by private segments. All too often we felt that our purpose was to apprehend and investigate while inadequate attention was paid to the areas of prevention and rehabilitation.

I am very happy to say that great changes have now been wrought in the field. The most important, perhaps, has been the widespread acknowledgement of the basic rights of people and a constantly increasing awareness of the fact that we are no longer an entity unto ourselves but that we are always to be responsive to public needs and public rights.

A basic requirement today in developing new policies is that, when implemented, they must be within the framework of constitutional guarantees with a recognition that we are not to dictate, but to serve.

This change does not come about without a few lacerations of pride and pain. In those areas where it has been an irritant, definite efforts have been made to re-educate the old- time officer and very explicit instructions given to the new, in order that he might not digress from the proper procedure.

I think the modern officer is the most efficient officer we have ever had. I consider him as generally capable to perform his duties as a result of greater and more professional- type training. The educational level of the officer has risen to the point where it is no longer unusual to have college graduates as patrolmen on the streets.

Through the efforts of community relations groups and modern programs by police departments, a better understanding has been achieved of the problems of all people. Where at one time Supreme Court decisions would seemingly seriously restrict our jurisdiction, the modern officer philosophically reviews such decisions and most decisions are accepted without question, the officer having attained a high level of understanding.

As a result, I have returned to the FBI a much better informed person and, I hope, therefore able to make greater contributions. One such contribution, I hope, will be to publicize this new atttitude and thereby increase the support so desperately needed by all of us. It is true that an individual officer will err and on occasion be offensive to the dignity and rights of persons.

I do not visualize the FBI as engaging constantly in a supervisory capacity, but I hope one of our missions will be to continue in the role of affording assistance and counsel to our fellow officers. My goal will be to make this most important part of our work real service, and not just tokenism. America needs the best and this includes law enforcement.

Some may say this is self-serving. Perhaps it is to some extent. Someone must speak in support of the progress which has been achieved. If I can, to some extent, assume the role of amicus curiae before the court of the people in assessing our capabilities, I do hope that we be given the right of being heard without the protestations and rhetoric which so frequently characterize the criticisms against us. Mr. Hoover developed a great heritage and it is time now for us to expand on this even further.

The protection of our people is not reserved to us alone but is a bilateral responsibility. I truly believe we are worthy of at least a fair trial in the assessment of our capabilities. Please, therefore, believe criticism of us only after deliberation and make decisions critical of us only after hearing both sides of the story. Remember, we represent you, the people, and we need one another.

NEW YORK (AP)— Never throw out today what you may be able to wear tomorrow.

If I had only followed that maxim I could become the most stylish lady on my block by just digging into my attic instead of my wallet.

What goes out will soon be back in, and hoarders eventually have a collection of old clothes that rivals the latest collections from Paris.

Take twin sweaters, for instance. In their first incarnation not too many years ago, the matching duo made Nos. 1 and 2 on the wardrobe hit parade. With singlemindedness I pursued the accumulation of this double fashion feature. I went out and bought twin sweater sets like they were going out of style.

Which they did.

Nobody would have been caught dead with a matched sweater set in her bureau drawer, and I surely wasn't going to be caught alive in such outmoded attire. Out they went, every last two of them.

Players of the fashion game have made numerous calculated moves since that time, and now they've stopped once more at the square marked Sweaters, Twin.

When I started seeing double again I dashed to the trunk that serves as our apartment-size attic in hopes that a couple of strays might have survived the passage of time, the Goodwill bag and the appetite of or resident moths.

Not a trace. The only two-of- a- kinds I found were a few pairs of pointed shoes that went out of style the same week that I finally got my toes trained to pile themselves one on top of another rather than line up side by side.

I got caught again in the belt boom, bust and boomerang. Before the sack dress gave them the status of a raincoat in the Sahara I had a supply of leather circlets that threatened to put cows on the endangered species list.

In fact, I had such an investment that I couldn't bear to throw them out and kept them for years coiled like snakes in dark corners of closets. I finally gave up and discarded them— only one season before belts surged back onto the fashion scene.

The chubbies, the platform shoes, the turbans that I cast out years ago would all come in handy again. But Dame Fashion won't fool me any more, now that I am on to her tricks.

I'm saving all my mid-dresses.

Hal Boyle is on vacation.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Soybean Bembargo May Cut Gas Flow

WASHINGTON -- In a secret dispatch from Belgium, the Central Intelligence Agency has reported ominous talk of curtailing the flow of gas to America in retaliation for the U.S. embargo on soybeans.

The U.S. produces 90 per cent of the soybeans in world trade. These humble yellow beans are both the cheapest and richest source of protein available. This makes them essential to the nourishment of people from Mexico to Japan.

The worldwide demand for soy meal, however, has exceeded the supply. President Nixon, therefore, has slapped strict controls on soybean exports.

But the United States is at the other end of the pipeline on gasoline. The flow of gas to the United States passes, in large measure, through the refineries of Europe.

Now the Europeans are citing the United States soybean embargo, according to the CIA, as a precedent for reducing gasoline shipments to a U.S. already short of gas.

MURPHY'S RETAINER: Genial George Murphy, the former screen star who made it to the Senate, is in trouble again because of his "consulting."

He lost his Senate seat to Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., in 1970 after we reported that Murphy had been drawing $20,000 a year as a "consultatnt " for Technicolor, Inc., while serving in the Senate. Technicolor also paid half the rent on Murphy's apartment and provided him with handy credit cards.

It happened that Technicolor was run by Patrick J. Frawley Jr., who often used company funds to push extreme right-wing causes.

Now Murphy is back in the consultant business. His firm was paid $3,000 this year for two months of "consulting" over a bilingual children's television project sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education.

An interim audit of the television project is highly critical of the retainer paid to Murphy's firm. "We found no documentation to support the $3,000 in retainer fees," states the confidential report.

Murphy insisted to us, however, that he made 40 or 50 phone calls and personally "interceded" with Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger in behalf of the project.

As for the $3,000 consulting fee, he rasped: "They got the best buy in Washington in many a moon."

Footnote: The auditors also sharply criticized other aspects of the bilingual chilren's television project. They recommended that $489,935 in expenditures be "disallowed" and questioned the allocation of another $552,657 spent to set up a television show similar to "Sesame Street" for Spanish-speaking children. The auditors also complained of exorbitant travel and salary expenditures.

WHO'S LISTENING? Sen. Barry Goldwater, R.-Ariz., wasn't surprised to learn that President Nixon has been bugging all conversations in the oval office. Explained a Goldwater aide:

"One conversation he had in the oval office was reported so precisely by Jack Anderson that he felt there had to be a recording device in operation at the time. There was not a comma out of place."

It's true we printed verbatim quotes from a secret White House strategy session that Goldwater attended last year. Here are excerpts:

"We are going to have a wild card in the game now and then," the President explained to party leaders. "I thought I would invite some member of Congress, who is not in the leadership, to come to the meetings from time to time."

Then he introduced Goldwater as the first special guest.

"I knew I would make it sometime," said Goldwater, who lost the 1964 presidential election.

"Would you like to change chairs?" offered the President

"Not after what I've seen," said Goldwater.

Our story went on to report what was discussed at the meeting. The verbatim quotes, we are happy to reassure Goldwater, did not come from the President's secret tapes. We had a copy of the secret minutes.

Burlison releases information relative to disaster loans

WASHINGTON, D. C. — U. S. Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau today released a status report on pending legislation relative to disaster loans.

The vehicle for the legislation, he said, is the Small Business Administration amendments of 1973. On the Senate side a provision for one per cent Farmers Home Administration loans, with the first $5,000 of the loan forgiven, was approved for the disaster declaration of April 27. This amendment was offered by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton (D.-Mo.). Otherwise, the bill provides SBA and FHA loans with $2,500 forgiveness.

House of Representatives rules of germaneness do not permit inclusion of FHA amendments on the SBA act, Burlison said. Therefore, the only hope of obtaining the FHA provision at this time is getting it approved in Senate - House Conference Committee. The House has just completed action on the bill. Its version gives the victims of disasters occurring after the April 27 declaration the option of a three per cent SBA loan with the first $2,500 forgiven, or a one per cent loan without forgiveness. The Senate and House versions of the bill will now go to Conference with the senior Members of the House and Senate Committee on Banking.

Burlison said a strong effort was made to delete the disaster loan provisions on the House Floor with the argument that the Public Works Committee would soon be reportingg a general disaster bill which would provide uniform coverage for both the SBA and FHS borrowers.

The Congressman noted that under presently existing law there is no forgiveness feature. The forgiveness feature for SBA loans expired for disasters occurring after the April 27 declaration. FHS forgiveness loans were stopped by the President on December 26. Thus it is seen that there was no forgiveness for FHA borrowers after the general flooding resulting in the Presidential disaster declaration of April 27, 1973. The SBA forgiveness features, however, were in effect.

"There has been on the President's desk for several weeks application for Presidential disaster declaration for the flash flood of May 26-27, occurring in Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Perry, Scott, Stoddard, Wayne, Madison and Ripley counties.

Ann Landers

Each person should try to live life for himself

Dear Ann Landers: I want to say something to the 31-year- old wife and mother of three who is trying to do everything for everybody and ends up "Exhausted." That was me, eight years ago. I could have signed myself "Drained."

Here are my questions for HER:

Where are YOU in the list of daily demands? Do you like yourself well enough to save some time and energy for YOU? If you haven't learned to say no, better start practicing. Take a little time for yourself every day, and a lot of tir- now and then. Do what is impor- t to YOU, not the part of you that is a sex object, a mop- pusher or a nurse for sick kids. If your husband doesn't realize you need time alone, have you tried TELLING him? If he doesn't get it, TELL him again. And this goes for your children, too. Love them and enjoy them, but don't let them own you. Children grow up. Husbands come and go. But you'll be with YOU for a lifetime.--- The Living Me

Dear Living You: Beautiful. Just beautiful. Thanks for putting it all together.

Dear Ann Landers: For years I've been annoyed by the digs at overweight people. We've been called "Baby Blimps," "Fat Cans," "Big Berthas" and so on.

Why is it that no one ever says a word about the 50- year-old turkey with a face like a dried prune? She wears size 8 short and a halter top when she does her marketing. Her legs look like a sparrow's when she clomps around in those ugly platform shoes.

Yes, I'm fat, but my husband would rather have me this way than looking like a bird who fell out of the nest. Thanks for letting me say it.--- Feeling Fine

Dear F.: Now that you've said it, what am I going to say to those prune- faced, sparrow-legged size 8s who will be writing to me?

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year- old son tore your column out of the paper today and pinned it to the family bulletin board. Across the top he wrote: "See, I am right."

You talked about the importance of laughter, how it keeps people sane and said, "Life would be unbearable without it."

Our son, a college student, is a nice, clean kid who works summers to pay his own tuition. His problem is his mouth. He teases his 16- year-old brother unmercifully. He also makes cutting remarks to his eight- year-old brother who is overweight. The little guy is in tears most of the time.

Your column made him very happy. Please put your remarks in the proper context. My husband and I are sure you didn't mean what this boy seems to think you meant.--- M And D

Dear M and D: You don't say whether this boy needles his friends or if he reserves his barbs for the family. I'm betting it's part of his total personality, and that he doesn't have many friends.

A 20- year- old knows the difference between laughter and ridicule. Laughter gives people a life. Ridicule puts people down. I hope you will look deeper into this situation and give the older boy the emotional support he needs. He's a very unhappy kid who could use some counseling.

Miss Williamson, Kenneth Caldwell wed June 1

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lynn Caldwell

CHARLESTON — Elm Street Baptist Church was the setting June 1 for the wedding of Barbara Sue Williamson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Bob Williamson of Charleston, and Kenneth Lynn Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Caldwell of Portageville.

The father of the bride and the Rev. Chester Smith of Dexter officiating at the ceremony.

Greenery decorated the choir loft rail and an arrangement of pink carnations centered the altar for the wedding. A silver candelabra holding three pink candles was to the left of the altar. Directly behind the flowers was a 12- branch candelabra entwined with greenery and pink bow.

Terry DeJournett of Essex, cousin of the bride, was organist and accompanied Miss Lesa Fisher of Portageville as she sang, "Theme from Love Story", "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride wore an empire-styled gown of bridal satin accented with lace. Lace began at the empire waistline and continued to the floor. The neckline was also accented with lace. The gown featured long, puffed sleeves and wide cuffs with lace around the wrist. She also wore a detachable chapel-length train of bridal satin.

The bride wore a double chapel- length mantilla of silk illusion bordered with re-embroidered Alencon lace and held secure with a Camelot - style cape of matching lace. She carried white pom- poms and lily of the valley encircling two pink baby roses. White and pink streamers were attached and tied in love knots.

Maid of honor was Miss Kathy Pack of North Little Rock, Ark.; and bridesmaids were Miss Deberrah Patterson of Poplar Bluff and Miss Pattie Caldwell of Portageville, sister of the groom. Little Miss Melanie Sheehy of Ironton, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

All attendants wore gowns of pink dotted Swiss with empire- styled waistlines. Each featured a hot pink crepe sash, short puffed sleeves accented with lace and rounded necklines. Each girl also carried a long-stemmed pink rose with streamers and love knots, except for flower girl who carried a basket of pomoms.

Brent Farmer of Portageville was best man, and Glenn Lenen and Greg Bell of Portageville, were groomsmen. Kenny Campble of O'Fallon, a nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with pink net and decorated with white wedding bells. A three- tiered cake centered the table and was topped with a miniature bride and groom. On each side of the cake were silver candelabras holding pink candles. Punch was served at one end of the table and nuts and mints at the other.

Miss Diana Barnes of Bauxite, Ark., Miss Vicki Ray of Wardell and Miss Pam Creasy of Hayti served.

Miss Vickie Williamson of Sikeston, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guestbook.

Ushers were Mike Williamson of Sikeston, cousin of the bride, and Herchal Bocden of Portageville.

Candlelighters were Miss Brenda Williamson and Miss Karen Williamson, sisters of the bride. Their dresses were identical to those worn by the bridal attendants and they wore wrist corsages of carnations.

Mrs. Williamson chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue street- length dress with long sleeves, and Mrs. Caldwell wore a street- length navy and white dress. Both mothers wore white carnations.

The couple lives at Morley.

The bride attended North Pemiscot High School at Wardell and Southern Baptist College at Walnut Ridge, Ark.

The groom attended Portageville High School.

Out- of - town guests for the weeding were:

Mr. and Mrs. Ardin Simmons, Ronnie Gream, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Farmer, Mrs. Edna Davidson, Lynn Latimer, Viola Fisher and Dennis Fisher of Portageville; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Halford and Bradley of Painton.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Swimmer Needs Tip To Soften Bikini

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I just got out my bikini which had been in a drawer for nearly a year. I evidently did not wash out all the chlorine before I put it away as the bra part is hard as a brick. This was a new bathing suit and I would appreciate it if someone will tell me how to get that part soft again or at least save the material.—MRS. B. J. L.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve blossoms forth about this time every year. With the first thoughts of spring planting I am prowling through the rows of seedlings at the nearest nursery. My enthusiasm always is dampened when I find the tags on the various plant flats are written only in a foreign language and a dead one at that (Latin). There may be some knowledgeable gardeners who recognize Ipomoea as Morning Glory and so on, but I am not among them. It would certainly save their time and our tempers if they could follow these Latin names with the common names.—RUTH L.

DEAR POLLY—Please tell Jane that many stores carrying artists' supplies sell crayons individually and in many colors not available in the standard boxes. She can buy all the black ones she wants separately.—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—When my children were small and I taught a Sunday School class that used crayons, I often needed extra black ones. I wrote to the address on a box of crayons and the company sent me a catalogue. I ordered boxes of black ones.—MRS. O. W.

DEAR POLLY—I have the ultimate in a money-saving idea. I use department-store bags to line my shelves and drawers. They are free with every purchase. Many come in attractive colors and patterns.—NORMA

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for grandparents-to-be. When we hear of the expected advent of a new grandchild I start an animal bank (they come with Snoopy, Mickey Mouse, etc.) and grandpa and I drop all our change each day into this bank. When the baby makes his appearance we have money as a nice gift with no wondering what to get and OUR children love the idea.—MRS. M. C.

SeMo area to pilot toy lending library

BENTON — The Bootheel has been selected as one of the four areas in Missouri to pilot a toy lending library.

The University of Missouri Extension Program is aimed at parents of preschoolers to provide learning toys and information on interacting with their children. The nine toys have been selected to teach the basic concepts of size, shape, colors, numbers, sequences.

Video tapes have been developed showing the toys and their purposes as well as techniques and games with them.

The format will be similar to library where parents check out the "toy of the week" after the seeing the tape and discussing the games.

Several sets of the easily made toys are needed to implement the Bootheel Toy Lending Library. Directions and measurements will be available to any civic or social organization interested in providing materials or time.

For more information, contact Mrs. Sharen Hunt, area home economist, child and family development, University of Missouri Extension Center, Benton, Mo. 63736, telephone number 545-3516.

The goal of the toy lending library is to help parents get the most out of playing with their children in setting where play is the fun business of children and adults.

Mrs. Smith is Malden Breath of Life chairman

MALDEN — Mrs. Elmo Smith has been named chairman of the Malden Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung diseases, according to George A. Stephens, president of the Gateway Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

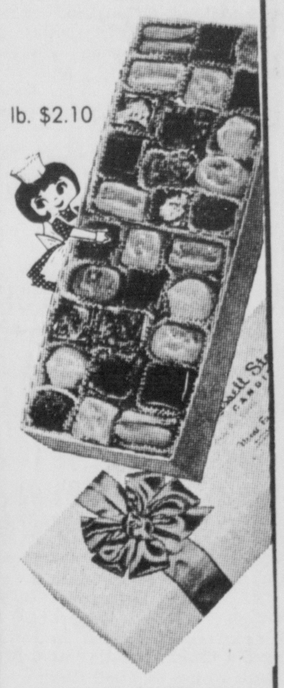

Mrs. Smith will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung- damaging diseases like cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis, and a condition called "childhood emphysema."

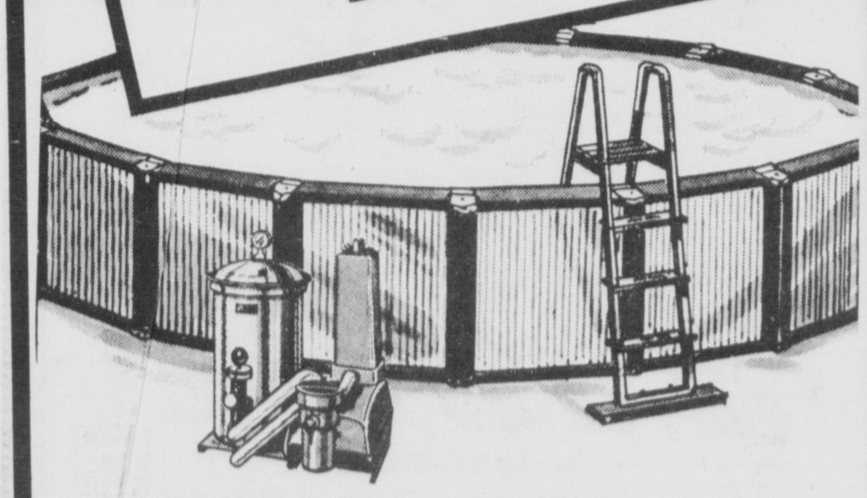

The campaign begins in September, with a house- to - house appeal scheduled Sept 9.

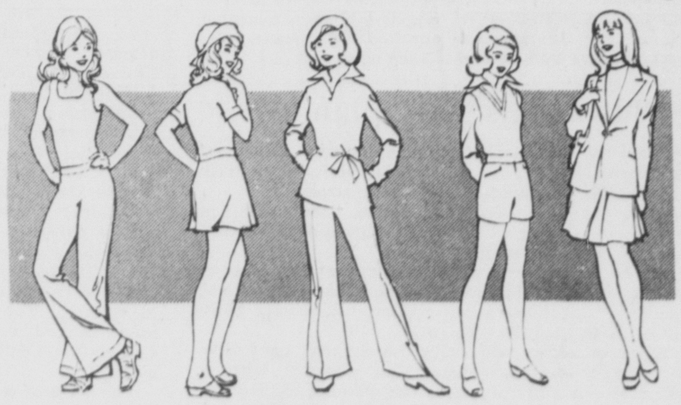

Miss Bridger is model

Kim Bridger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bridger, models a two- piece pantsuit similar to one which will be given away at the Beta Sigma Phi fall fashion show Aug. 6 at 8 p.m. in the American Legion building. Tickets may be purchased from any member of Delta Gamma chapter.

Choir to perform at youth rally

A youth rally at Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, at 7 o'clock tonight will feature a presentation of the folk- musical, "Natural High", by the Murray Lane Baptist senior high choir. Barring inclement weather, the program will be presented outside on the church grounds.

Directed by Mrs. Greta Davis, the choir is composed of 26 teen- agers-- 22 singers, two guitarists, a drummer and a pianist.

The choir, in its third year and third folk- musical under the direction of Mrs. Davis, recently completed a five- day tour during which "Natural High" was presented in churches in Bonne Terre, Osage Beach, Union and St. Charles and ended with a visit to Six Flags Over Mid-America.

"Natural High" is a folk- musical about youngsters who realize that drugs are not the way to escape from reality and that they must turn to Christ, who is reality.

Refreshments will be served during a fellowship gathering after the musical.

Since the musical program is planned outside, informal dress and a blanket to sit on are suggested for those attending.

Old Settlers' Day planned

DEXTER — The public is invited to attend Old Settlers' Day worship services at 9:15 a.m. Sunday, July 29, in Faith Lutheran Church, Saddle Spur and Trotter streets.

The Rev. Rudolph A. Ritz, pastor, states that in connection with Dexter's centennial, church customs of a century ago will be observed.

Men will be seated on one side of the sanctuary, women on the other, and all children in front pews to participate in "Christenlehre" after the sermon. Men will receive Holy Communion first, then the women.

The board of elders will sit in the chancel, light altar candles with a match, receive the offering with a "klingelbeutel" (a bell ringing as the offering is dropped into a red bag.)

DAVID POLING, D.D.

The preacher at the Watergate

By REV. DAVID POLING

Within a two-week period we have covered seven states from Iowa to Arizona. At every interval, every stop, every meal, the conversation of strangers turns to Watergate. The supermarket clerk, the gas station attendant, the motel keeper, the city editor and the local pastor are shaking their heads over the Watergate events.

Shock has turned to anger and alarm. An Iowa farmer states that he will never trust the "people in Washington again." A Kansas highway employe feels that "this is as close as America has come to its own brand of fascism." The citizens of mid-America are waiting and watching.

Sermons about Watergate have not been delivered in many pulpits. Most pastors want to reserve judgment, let the investigations reveal the crime. Yet the overhanging moral calamity rests like a London fog on the ethical countryside. Dr. Ernest Campbell of Riverside Church, New York, points to the double standard that rules so well in affluent America. It goes like this: If you live in a ghetto and break into a store, you end up in prison. Break into Watergate, mastermind political intrigue, spend millions secretly and you are excused with the country club phrase, "Everybody does it." In this double standard, which has so many racist overtones, the car thief serves time, while the Watergate planners are simply "between jobs."

The most instructive and helpful sermon on Watergate has been delivered by Dr. David H. C. Read, as guest preacher in Omaha, Neb. last month. His topic: Ezra—The Preacher at the Watergate. And his text from Nehemiah 8:1-2 is worth repeating across the land.

> "And all the people gathered as one man into the square before the Water Gate; and they told Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses which the Lord had given to Israel."

In the development of this text, the senior minister from Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City noted that the children of Israel had been ignorant of the Law of Moses. Many had only recently returned from Exile and were shocked to learn of the moral decay that had come upon them and their nation. Jerusalem was in ruins and their ethical, religious and moral standards were awful compared to the Law of God read by Ezra at the Watergate.

Ezra read from the Law of Moses for half the day. When he was through, the assembly was face down on the earth, filled with guilt and shame. Dr. Read notes three immediate results: repentance, reverence for God's law and world, and ultimate rejoicing in a new way of life.

The Water Gate text is a powerful message for it speaks to an entire nation as well as the present administration. It does not duck the soul-searching that must take place if this event is to have a cleansing, renewing effect on American life. And it does promise celebration, for when a massive evil has been corrected, there is joy and happiness for the community. We are quite a distance from the third condition of this text—there will be much more unhappiness through legal procedures before Watergate drifts into history.

Lutherans modify governing role

By HEROLD G. LOHRMANN

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod modified its church government from advisory to supervisory in its recent New Orleans convention. Pastor Herold G. Lohrmann and Mrs. Lois Lohrmann of Concordia Lutheran Church in Sikeston returned Sunday evening from the convention. Pastor Lohrmann was an elected delegate representing 25 Lutheran churches in this area.

The convocation of conservative Lutherans began in New Orleans on July 6 with an opening worship service at the Rivergate Convention Center. Over 5,000 delegates and visitors attended the opening worship service. Nearly 1,100 voting delegates, representing groups of churches from the United States and 16 foreign countries, attended.

The delegates represented more than 6,000 churches of the Missouri Synod which has nearly three million members. The meetings continued at the Rivergate Convention Center until late July 13.

The surprising strength of a conservative vote re-elected the Dr. J. A. O. Preus on the first ballot. The convention went on to give Dr. Preus and the Board of Control complete supervisory power over the conduct and teaching of the faculty of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

Some of the issues passed upon by the convention centered about the authority of the entire Bible on Christian doctrine. The convention insisted that the Bible have a literal explanation. The delegates also insisted by a 6- 4 margin that district presidents and presidents of the Missouri-Synod have the power to enforce the principles of faith and methods of teaching that are done by the seminary professors and the parish pastors.

With that, the Lutheran Church- Missouri Synod changed from an advisory to a supervisory power in church administration. The effects on future actions and procedures in the Lutheran churches of America and the Protestant families of Christians is not yet certain.

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod retains its limited interaction with the other Lutheran bodies of America totaling nearly 10 million Christians.

Idalia church marks 100th anniversary

IDALIA— St. Joe General Baptist Church is celebrating its 100th year this week, with nightly services which began Thursday and will continue through Saturday.

All day services will be held Sunday with a basket dinner on the grounds.

Revival slated at Little Vine

Little Vine General Baptist Church, located seven miles southeast of Sikeston on Route AA, will have revival services next Monday through Sunday nights. The Rev. Roy Ridenour will be the evangelist for nightly services at 7:30 p.m.

Special singing will be featured each night, with Arnold Joe Myrick as Music Director, according to the Rev. Robert Cates, pastor.

Speaker named

TULSA, Okla. — The Rev. Harold Brockhoff, president of the Oklahoma District of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will be the keynote speaker at the 56th annual convention of the International Lutheran Laymen's League July 28-Aug. 1 at the Tulsa Assembly Center.

This week's Uniform INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Dr. William H. Taft

FOR SUNDAY, JULY 22

Scripture: Exodus 20:15; I Kings 20:1-19; Amos 8: 4-6; Mark 12:41-44; Luke 19:1-10; Ephesians 4:28; James 2:14-17

Proper Regard For Ownership

"You shall not steal," is another of the shorter Commandments. Yet it has many interpretations in today's society.

The message involves the methods that Christians should adopt to provide proper stewardship of property under God. It also involves a study of the right of persons to hold and enjoy possessions.

Recently a new book appeared titled "Stealing". It relates in detail the unique methods used by employes who steal from their employers such items as meat, furniture, clothing, stamps, and other valuables.

Between three and fifteen billion dollars are lost by firms through such thefts. On a much smaller scale, one can read in his daily newspaper about persons arrested for shoplifting.

God would attack merchants who violate the laws by using inaccurate scales to weigh their merchandise. Last year a city inspector found nearly one-fourth of all scales to be out of proper adjustment. Customers thus lost many dollars in prices paid for grocery items.

Other debates over rights appear in our mass media. For example, who owns the offshore land used by oil firms as they probe the ocean floor for more oil?

Are beaches along Florida private or public areas? Hotels say they are private; some state leaders believe such land should be public and open to all persons.

Local debates follow plans for new highways that cut through farm lands, or city streets that chop off footage along the property owner's yard.

The Hebrews had fewer problems to handle. Their possessions were not numerous, consisting of slaves, cattle, clothing and some agricultural tools, Still, their laws about stealing were specific.

A thief who killed or sold a stolen beast could be sold as a slave if he were unable to repay the owner for his loss. Without banks, the persons depended more upon oral oaths and promises than is probably practiced today.

Amos attacked the affluent society leaders of his day, calling for absolute honesty in business and worship. Amos considered it to be stealing when greed and selfishness prompted businessmen to take advantage of the poor.

Jesus offers salvation to the despised tax collector who admits his sin and who promises to restore fourfold any money he took unlawfully. Luke relates this narrative about one who seeks salvation.

No doubt there are legal and illegal ways, both subtle and apparent, by which stealing is done. Yearly we read about millionaires who pay nothing in taxes, operating within legal loopholes.

The central truth of this lesson is that "People are more important than things, but when Christ saves the man He also changes his outlook on things." Obviously this occurred in the tax collector's case.

Unfortunately, there are many persons who look upon the taking of little items in the same way that they excuse a "white lie"—it doesn't really count. To them the taking of Coke money from petty cash is O.K., but not the stealing of a major item.

God has made it possible for man to own property. In return for this privilege, He has charged us with the responsibility for its care. Ecologists could say we have stolen too much from our land by our mistreatment of its resources.

People steal because they are sinful at heart. Others steal in anger, seeking to "get even" with their bosses for one reason or another. Some, of course steal for greed or covetousness.

Many centuries ago a writer noted that "It is easier to renounce worldly possessions than it is to renounce the love of them." And Pope John XXII said, "There is a social duty essentially inherent in the right of private property."

The future depends upon the older generation's skill in instilling in the minds of our youth the proper respect for another person's property. And the older generation can start by setting more God-like examples for youth to follow.

Baptists take steps to avert future controversies

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri Baptist Convention has taken its first steps to prevent future controversies involving charges of misappropriation of funds in its ranks.

Dr. Earl O. Harding, 61, the MBC executive secretary for 18 years, has been accused of using MBC funds for his personal use and having no bookkeeping records to account for about $500,000 over the last five years.

The controversy about the charges has been mounting for 18 months. No legal action has been taken.

The MBC has ordered a complete audit of all the convention's financial transactions for the period in question.

The exectuive board and executive committee of the MBC met in Jefferson City, July 9-10 to consider action.

The meetings were stormy as both sides of the controversy sought either to force Dr. Harding's resignation of to defend him.

On the first night, Dr. Harding had a heart attack and entered the intensive care unit of St. Mary's Hospital in Jefferson City where he later was reported improving.

Before his illness, Dr. Harding read a letter to the executive committee that he had deposited $40,000 in the MBC account to replay the balance of a controversial $62,500 interest free "advance" on his housing allowance made about five years ago. The money had been used to buy Dr. Harding's home.

Dissidents had argued that the advance was made recently and was illegal for a nonprofit corporation to make. Dr. Harding's backers said the advance, which was approved by the executive committee, had been made in "appreciation" of Dr. Harding's long service.

The executive board adopted 10 structural changes which would make it more difficult for the executive committee to approve MBC business without the general knowledge of local churches.

One structural change provides for the election of the executive committee. Members were appointed before. Dr. Harding has been accused of stacking the powerful board which transacts denominational business between the annual MBC meetings. The annual meetings are attended by both lay and clergy messengers (delegates).

The executive committee's meetings were opened to members of the executive board. The executive committee, composed of 12 members from the executive board, transacts most of the major denominational business.

The board members also approved the proposal to make all MBC salaries public by job classification. There have been many rumors about exorbitant salaries.

During the meeting, the executive committee listened to a letter from First Baptist Church of Cape Girardeau, which asked for Dr. Harding's resignation. It was entered into the minutes but no action was taken.

Dr. Tom Anderson, a Columbia psychiatrist and one of the leaders in bringing the charges against Dr. Harding, said the executive committee was going in the right direction but not enough had been done.

"I have the feeling we are at least beginning," he said. "But there is still a long way to go. The executive committee will meet again after the audit is completed. That is when I really expect the action."

Jim Ford, a Kennett, Mo. attorney who has served as chairman of the executive committee since May, said that he had examined MBC records and "I can't see how Dr. Harding could be accused of misappropriating funds.

"As hindsight now, I can see where he might be accused of using poor judgment in some cases, but I don't think there is any cause to attack the man.

"The whole dissident attack is a personal attack on Dr. Harding. I'm on the Lord's side and I think that when the audit is completed, that will be the end of the matter."

Dr. W. T. Holland, pastor of First Baptist Church in Cape Girardeau, and until recently a supporter of Dr. Harding, disagrees.

"I don't see how Dr. Harding can continue to serve effectively as executive secretary," he said. "I supported him in October and was involved in heavy debate about the charges. But since then, I've learned some facts. He is only hurting the cause of Christ where he is now ..."

The audit is expected to be completed in about a month. No action will be taken until then. Both sides said that they hoped the issue would be settled than once and for all.

THE BIBLE

92. The Rescue of Gibeon

The ambassadors of the city of Gibeon tricked Joshua and the people into believing that their city was far away. When the people of Gibeon asked for a treaty which would place them in bondage to the children of Israel, Joshua agreed. Soon, however, it was learned that Gibeon, a mighty city of brave warriors, was not far away. Nevertheless, Joshua and his army obeyed the pact, even though it had been signed in deception.

But King Adonizedec of Jerusalem urged King Hoham of Hebron, King Piram of Jarmuth, King Japhia of Lachish, and King Debir of Eglon to become his allies so that they could destroy Gibeon.

The five kings of the Amorites came up and made war against Gibeon. The men of Gibeon called upon Joshua to save them. Joshua brought up his army, and the Lord told Joshua that the enemies would be delivered unto him.

Joshua's forces routed the alliance of the Amorites, "And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel...that the Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them...and they died: they were more which died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword."

First patient admitted

HAYTI — The first patient into the Pemiscot County Nursing Home adjacent to the hospital in Hayti, was admitted Thursday morning, Jack Tipton, administrator of the hospital, said. He said it won't be long before all 60 beds in the nursing home are filled.

Festivities marking the opening of the nursing home will be held Sunday afternoon. The dedication will be at 2 p.m. followed by the grand opening. Visitors can stroll through the nursing home at that time, see the rooms and the facilities offered.

Tipton said refreshments will be served and that there will be a ribbon- cutting ceremony followed by short speeches concerning the dedication. Several city, county and state dignitaries will be present.

Construction of the nursing home was completed last week. With its completion, it marked the first and only nursing home in the county.

Construction began in May 1972. The construction was let to Bill Ryan Construction Co., Sikeston, who had the low bid of $605,630. His bid was $40,000 over the estimated construction cost of the nursing home.

The facility was constructed on a vacant lot between the hospital and the Pemiscot County Health department. Approximately 40 persons will be employed in the home and 60 residents were involved in the construction.

Tipton said "I can hardly wait until Sunday. We're very proud of this home and it's the culmination of all our hopes and dreams. It's something we've needed in this county for a long time.

"We won't have any trouble filling up the nursing home. It has 60 beds and we've got over 90 persons on our list. For that matter, if we had the money, we could have added another 60 beds and still fill up the home.

"Perhaps in a couple of years we can add onto the nursing home. We'll have to wait and see how things work out."

Hopes for the nursing home began to rise on Feb. 18, 1972, when Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton annnounced that the hospital at Hayti had received a grant of $588,000 under the Accelerated Public Works Department of the Economic Development Administration.

The grant allowed for construction of a $735,000 nursing home for the elderly with $147,000 financed by the local hospital.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the nursing home were held May 18, 1972.

Tipton said a survey last year has shown how badly needed was a nursing home. The survey showed that over 200 beds were needed in the county.

The nursing home was built so that an additional 60-bed unit can be built on top, as was done with the new wing at the hospital.

Dexter school transportation system examined

DEXTER — The Dexter school system operates 14 buses daily and keeps two older buses as spares to be used when additional buses are required or while others are being repaired.

The total cost of the buses now in operation amounts to $130,145.86. The school maintains a garage in which minor repair work is done. The major repair work is done in regular garages. During the 1972-73 school year, the total cost or operating the transportation program amounted to $59,768.14 including depreciation. This amounted to $47.42 per student transported.

The breakdown was as follows: depreciation, $16,546.02; salaries, $29,775.43; maintenance and operation, $11,729.96; insurance, $1,716.73; total $59,768.14.

The state reimburses the Dexter district 25 cents per day per student that rides the buses. A total of 1,595 students rode the buses 226,836 days, which amounted to $56,709 or $3,059.14 less than the actual cost of operation.

One of the problems is that the bus runs must be set up to accommodate the maximum number of students on the run. When a student does not ride, no reimbursement is received from the state for the days that he does not ride.

During the past year, the buses traveled 130,464 miles in transporting students. This amounted to 724.8 miles per day.

Fourteen drivers are employed to drive the buses. One of these is Wellman Dowdy, who also serves as head bus driver and mechanic.Another is John Tucker, who serves as assistant mechanic.These two men work 12 months per year.

Other drivers who have been employed for next year are: Denver Gregory, Edith Gregory, Joe Fields, George Quinton, Joe Marquis, Owen Brown, Charles Garner, E. C. Williams, and Pansy Forkum. Two other drivers are needed as well as some substitute drivers. Women are encouraged to apply. The starting salary is $175 per school month of $8.75 per day. The driving time amounts to approximately three hours per day.

Each year, all drivers attend at least one workshop conducted by the State Department of Education and one conducted by the local school. Others are conducted as needed. In addition, drivers must have a chauffeur's license and pass a physical test.

Defendants plead not guilty to charge of soring

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — J. D. Faulkner of Kennett, Mo., and his daughter, Flo Barr of Dallas, Tex., appeared before U.S. Magistrate Judge Aaron Brown Jr. in Memphis Thursday in the Western District Division Court and pleaded not guilty to charges of allegedly showing a sored horse, Ebony's Sundust, at the Cotton Carnival Show in May.

The two, along with their trainer Russell Pate of Collierville, Tenn., were among 30 persons indicted by a federal grand jury in Memphis last week on charges of allegedly showing sored Tennessee Walking horses.

A spokesman for the magistrate judge's office said not guilty pleas were entered by all those persons indicted in the horse soring case.

The defendants have been given 30 days to file pre- trial motions prior to a court setting for the cases. Faulkner and Mrs. Barr's cases have been assigned to Western District Federal Court Judge Robert McRae, for trial on the misdemeanor charges which carry a maximum penalty of six months imprisonment and up to a $2,000 fine.

Tax rate unchanged

HAYTI — The tax ordinance establishing the 1973 rate for the City of Hayti was read for the third and final time and then passed unanimously by the City Council at Monday night's meeting.

The ordinance sets the rate of valuation for real and personal property at $2.15 per $100 valuation. There was no change in the rate from last year.

Broken down, the ordinance calls for $1 per $100 valuation for the general fund, $.85 per $100 valuation for the 1959 public improvement bond sinking and interest fund, 11 cents per $100 valuation for free public library fund, 5 cents per $100 valuation for cemetery fund, and 14 cents per $100 valuation for park fund.

DIAMOND ANNIVERSARY

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — International attention is being thrust on this small locality this year. The reason is that it was the place where Pepsi-Cola was first created in a drug-store by Caleb D. Bradman, 75 years ago.

The soft-drink company is planning many events in connection with its Diamond Anniversary.

East Prairie awarded RSVP grant

EAST PRAIRIE— Barney Webster, Chamber of Commerce president, has received work of the funding of a Retired Senior Volunteer program for which the chamber is sponsor.

The grant for one year is $32,622, with the program being funded for five years. In addition to the federal grant, the chamber is furnishing office space and other services. The chamber will also maintain an office within the RSVP office.

The grant was announced in Washington by ACTION Director Mike Balzano.

RSVP is a national program to develop significant volunteer service in local communities for men and women age 60 and over, and to give the people the feeling of being a part of the community again.

The program is expected to get underway around the first of August with the office located at 605 E. Main.

Mrs. Carey (Betty) Johnson is program director for the county and will be making contacts soon. Volunteers will be placed over the entire county in cooperating public and private social services agencies. Transportation to and from the volunteer work sites will be furnished as well as meals when working during meal time.

Anyone interested in the program may contact the local Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation office for information until the RSVP office is open. DAEOC was primarily responsible for getting the chamber interested in sponsoring the program.

Webster said he is enthused with the program and says besides aiding the local senior citizens it will also be a help to everyone in the county. He said "It will be a first for the C or C, as it will be the first office the chamber has ever maintained. Once the office is opened the chamber plans to conduct a membership drive."

This grant is a result of President Nixon's request to Congress, following the 1971 White House Conference on Aging, to greatly expand opportunities for meaningful volunteer service for older Americans.

RSVP was started in 1969 by the U. S. Department of Health Education and Welfare and became operation in July, 1971 when it became part of ACTION.

RSVP is planned, organized and operated on the local level. It is developed under the auspices of an extablished community service organization or agency. Any retired person age 60 and over can become a RSVP volunteer; there are no education, income or experience requirements.

Volunteers serve in a variety of organizations, agencies and institutions such as courts, schools. libraries, day care centers. hospitals. nursing homes, scout offices, economic development agencies and other community service centers.

RSVP volunteers serve without compensation, although they may be reimbursed for such costs as transportation.

The case of the fun-loving date

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Chester was a real nut. Anything for a gag. Consequently, when he took Hilda out for a date, he decided to start the evening off with a bang. Unfortunately, it wasn't quite the bang he had intended.

As Hilda seated herself in his car, Chester surreptitiously dropped a little rubber mouse in her lap and, panicked at the sight of it, the hysterical Hilda banged her head badly as she frantically tried to escape from the vehicle through a closed window.

The fun- filled evening ultimately ended up with Hilda suing fun- loving Chester for her cranial injuries.

"I don't understand why she got so upset or why she's suing me," protested Chester in court. "Certainly, it's not my fault she didn't have a sense of humor."

"With his sense of humor," was Hilda's response, "he could have been a hangman. Since women, like elephants, are traditionally afraid of mice, I acted perfectly normal in becoming hysterical. Consequently, Chester's responsible for the consequences of his sadistic act.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold fun- loving Chester liable for Hilda's injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a practical joker assumes the risk that his victim may not appreciate his sense of humor. In such a case, concluded the judge, the joke's on him because he's liable for the consequences and resulting injuries.

Virus causes cancer

FORT DETRICK, Md. (AP) — A slow-acting virus that causes a neurological disease resembling multiple sclerosis in humans has been found to be the most potent virus for producing cancer in animals.

Relating this Wednesday, a top government researcher stressed that there was no evidence that the virus can cause cancer in man.

But he said that the discovery could help determine whether viruses can cause any form of human cancer, as well as provide a clue to the solution of a strange but common type of brain tumor in children called "medulla blastoma."

Dr. Donald Tower, acting director of the government's National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke (NINDS) told about the discovery at a science writers seminar staged by the White House and the Health Education and Welfare Department.

Dr. Tower said the discovery was made by Dr. Richard Johnson and associates at the Johns Hopkins Medical Center, Baltimore, Md.

He said the virus has long been known to cause a human nervous system disease known as "progressive, multi-focal, leuko-encephalopathy," or PML.

He said it attacks and erodes the myelin, the membrane that sheathes nerves emerging from the brain and spinal cord, which is an extension of the brain. The process is similar to that found in human multiple sclerosis, although there's still no proof the latter disease is caused by a virus, Dr. Tower said.

Watch his big smile that says "Thank You"

When the boy comes to collect...

Your newspaperboy makes it his business to collect at a regular time—convenient to you.

That way he comes expected and you can be ready for him.

You can help, too, by having the money there so he won't have to come back. He'll appreciate that.

Because this boy is in business. He depends on the full collection of his route for his full profit. And repeat calls for him mean extra work with no extra profit.

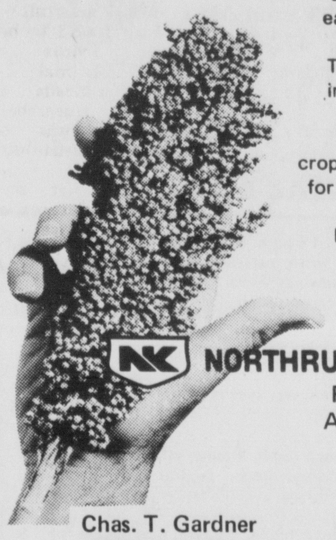

Hence, next time the boy comes by to collect, be ready—and watch his big smile, which says "Thank you."

4 injured in 3 area accidents

Three traffic accidents on area roads Thursday resulted in four injuries, the highway patrol reported today.

Two persons were injured at 11 p.m. on Route AA three and one- half miles west of Broseley when a westbound auto driven by Margaret J. McCormick, 27, of Poplar Bluff ran off the road at excessive speed and overturned.

Mrs. McCormick received a severe cut on her ear and a passenger, Tammy York, 15, of Poplar Bluff, suffered minor cuts. Both were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A pickup truck and a car collided at 12:50 p.m. on a gravel road two and one- half miles northeast of Daisy, injuring a passenger in the pickup.

Striking workers file petition with NLRB

CHARLESTON— Part of the work force of Basler Electric Co., on strike since April 1972, has filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board asking the NLRB to conduct a decertification election to decide if the majority of the workers want to retain representation by the Steelworkers Union.

The petition was received Monday at the NLRB offices in St. Louis, according to Carl Sauber, NLRB representative. Sauber would not indicate the percentage of the work force that the petition represents.

"We have to determine that the petition represents 30 per cent of the work unit," Sauber said. The petition was accompanied by a signature sheet, carrying dated signatures of a number of workers.

If NLRB agents find that the signatures represent 30 per cent of the workers and that certain other regulations have been followed, the NLRB will move to set up an informal hearing between representatives of the company, union and workers to set up the election. "We hope to set up an informal hearing within a week." Sauber said. "It depends on the cooperation of the parties."

If a friendly hearing cannot be arranged the NLRB will set up a formal hearing, either at the factory or at NLRB offices in St. Louis.

"If the majority of workers vote against being represented by the union, the union no longer represents them," Sauber said, "It just takes a simple majority."

Floyd Basler, vice president of the company, said the company is watching the situation closely, but staying out of it. "This is essentially between the union and the workers," he said, It's a ticklish situation and I don't want to comment on it yet."

An employe at the company who asked not to be identified said that most of the workers favored the petition and that a vote would probably decertify the union.

"The majority have changed their minds," the worker said, "Some want to stay with the union but most want to go back to work. People just kept getting more and more weary."

The company, which makes electrical transformers, came to Charleston in 1969. In November 1971, the employes voted by a margin of two votes to join the Steelworkers Union. The strike began five months later.

$75 taken from store

GRAY RIDGE-- Stoddard County authorities are investigating a burglary Thursday night at Davis Grocery.

According to Sheriff Ralph Mouser, owner Russell Davis said money was taken from a bank bag and change from a cash register and totaled approximately $75.

The burglars moved a storage rack and entered through a window from the back porch. The burglary was discovered at 7 a.m. today when Davis opened the store.

Break-in at tire center

CHARLESTON-- Police are investigating a break- in at Waggener Tire Center, 604 E. Marshall St., which was discovered about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday by police officer Walter Welch during routine patrol duty.

Eight stereo tape players and 50 stereo tapes valued at $716 were taken, according to Police Chief Bob Ritchey, who said entry to the building was gained by breaking out a rear window on the north side.

Youth gives false name

CHARLESTON-- Vernon Dewayne Skelton, 18, of East Prairie was fined $18 on a public intoxication charge Thursday.

Skelton identified himself to police officers by the fictitious name of John Henry and gave a Kirkwood address at the time of his arrest, which were reported in Thursday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Battery stolen

A battery was reported stolen sometime between Tuesday and Thursday from a pickup truck owned by Larry Drake of Canalou while it was parked at Potlatch Forest, Inc. on East Malone Avenue.

The battery was valued at $30.

contraseasonally, but poultry increased less than usual for this time of the year.

Meat prices rose five-tenths of one per cent last month despite the ceiling imposed on meat in late March. The rise, however, was slightly smaller than usual for June and considerably less than during the first four months of the year.

The June price report showed inflation continuing at a high level during the second quarter of the year but at a somewhat slower rate than during the first three months. Consumer prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 7.4 per cent for the quarter ended in June, compared with 8.6 per cent in the first quarter.

Sr. stars lose opener

SEDALIA, Mo.--- Sikeston's All- Stars Sr. Babe Ruth fell into the losers' bracket of the Senior Babe Ruth state tournament here Thursday night as they were blanked by their first- round opponent, Kansas City Sugar Creek, 3- 0.

Sugar Cerrk crossed the plate twice in the fifth with what turned out to be the winning tallies on triples by Sudcliffe and Cutties with a throwing error between the two and a ground out.

The Kansas City Stars added an insurance run in the sixth on a single by Holmes and a double by Sudcliffe.

Sikeston was unable to take advantage of two scoring opportunities in the fourth as two runners were thrown out at the plate while trying to score. In the inning, Bruce Lawrence led off the frame with a single and advanced to third when Sugar Creek hurler Bill Griffin threw wide to first in an attempt to pick off the Sikeston short stop. The runner was lost however, when a Greg Colwick bunt was fielded by the pitcher and relayed to catcher Metz to nail the sliding Lawrence. Colwick later took second on a Mike Collier sacrifice, but was thrown out at home plate after Charlie Miller's single to right.

Griffin, a six- foot- three righthander, was the winning pitcher as he held Sikeston to four well- spaced hits. Mitchell Walker suffered the loss for the All- Stars fanning two and retiring 10 opposing batters in a row during one stretch of the action.

Sikeston takes the field again tonight in losers' bracket action in a 7 p.m. contest. Richard Blankenship has been tabbed for mound duties by Coach Don Miller.

Belanger spoil Ryan's bid

ANAHEIM (AP) — Nolan Ryan missed his chance for two straight no-hitters with just six outs to go, yet the flame-throwing right-hander figures he still has a chance at a record third one this season.

Ryan no-hit Kansas City early in the season and did it at Detroit last Sunday. He hadn't allowed a hit by Baltimore Thursday night until Mark Belanger looped a single over the infield with none out in the eighth.

Baltimore eventually won the game 3-1 in 11 innings, putting Ryan's record at only 11-12 on the day he had been selected to the American League AllStar squad.

Nolan wasn't in the game at the finish, having been taken out by Manager Bobby Winkles after Tommy Davis doubled with one out in the top of the 11th. Dave Sells gave up a tworun double to Terry Crowley and that meant the game.

Asked if he had gone after the second straight no-hitter, Ryan answered readily, "I went into the game to give it my best shot. What the heck, it's not too often you get a chance like that."

Asked if he'd previously spoiled a no-hitter late in the game, Belanger—who went into the game hitting .214—laughed, "Spoil a no-hitter. Heck I have trouble getting a hit but if anybody was going to spoil it, I'm glad it was me."

Ryan has recorded 41 strikeouts in his last three games, setting an American League record and equalling the major league mark held by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

His 30 strikeouts in his last two games tie the American League record held by Sam McDowell. Ryan, who topped the majors with 329 strikeouts last season, leads both leagues with 233 this year.

The turnout for his first pitching appearance since the Detroit no-hitter was the largest for the Angels on a non-promotion night since September of 1968. And in 42 dates at home, they have drawn 623,233, an increase of 193,588 over a similar period in 1972.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Minnesota Twins beat the Boston Red Sox 6-2 and the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Texas Rangers 4-1.

In the only National League games, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, the Chicago Cubs trounced the San Diego Padres 12-5 and the Cincinnati Reds edged the Montreal Expos 3-2.

Twins 6, Red Sox 2

Rod Carew doubled home the tie-breaking run with two out in the eighth inning and Bobby Darwin added a bases-loaded triple following an intentional walk to Tony Oliva, pacing the Twins over the Red Sox.

Joe Decker pitched a five-hitter for Minnesota.

Brewers 4, Rangers 1

Milwaukee's Skip Lockwood held Texas hitless for six innings and then needed relief help from Eduardo Rodriguez in the seventh to protect the Brewers' victory over the Rangers. Darrell Porter drove in two Milwaukee runs with a double and triple.

Dodgers 3, Cardinals 2

Al Downing maintained his mastery over St. Louis by throttling the Cardinals on three hits in pitching the Dodgers to their victory with last-out help from Jim Brewer.

The sizzling Dodgers won for the 11th time in their last 13 baseball games on the strength of a tie-breaking two-run third inning against Alan Foster.

Cubs 12, Padres 5

Jose Cardenal slammed a three-run double and a solo homer, helping the Cubs erase a 4-0 deficit and snap a sixgame losing streak by beating the Padres. Five unearned runs in the sixth also helped the Cubs increase their National League East lead over St. Louis to 1½ games.

The Padres scored four runs in the first inning, three on Clarence Gaston's homer.

Reds 3, Expos 2

Pete Rose put Cincinnati in front with a two-run single in the second inning and Dan Driessen singled home what proved to be the winning run in the third and the Reds went on to defeat the Expos. Ross Grimsley survived home runs by Bob Bailey and Bob Stinson to post his fifth consecutive victory.

Even at the firemen's parade, everyone seems to have a gimmick—almost everyone. Pick the one who doesn't. 1. Sorry. Meet "Clean Ed" Mealmangel, discount diner owner. Gimmick: Leaves his thumb print in the mashed potatoes. Smokes ABL's "Any Brand Left" in the ash trays. 2. No. And no. Tex'n'Tilly, icky-poo radio-TV personalities. Gimmick: If it moves, interview it. They once even used a stethoscope to talk to a mole. 3. Jerry Jibroni. Spends so much time setting up, he never sees parade. Smokes cigarettes so super-long he almost needs binoculars to light them. 4. He's Tom Thump. His bass drum really is a gimmick: Can't stand the noise, but he likes to wear it. Puts cotton in his ears and in his cigarette filters. 5. Right. He enjoys the passing parade, without any gimmicks. That's why he smokes Camel Filters. They're good tasting, easy and honest. Schlosser leads win

CHARLESTON — Ron Schlosser provided the pitching and hitting power as Tri-County defeated Sikeston 4-2 Thursday night to remain as the only undefeated team n the Jr. Babe Ruth double elimination district tournament.

Schlosser connected for a 355-foot homer and limited the Sikeston All-Stars to five hits during the contest. His teammates backed his performance with an 11 hit attack.

Sikeston committed four errors which aided the Tri-County all-stars in their move into the finals of the event where they'll face the winner of tonight's Chaffee-Sikeston clash at 9 p.m.

Chaffee edged Jackson 5-4 to remain alive in the event. Ron Newcomer picked up the win for the Chaffee All-Stars.

Sikeston and Chaffee square off in a losers bracket contest at 7 p.m. this evening.

Williams names Ryan

BOSTON (AP) — Nolan Ryan of the California Angels, who came within six outs Thursday night of becoming the only major league pitcher to hurl three no-hitters in one season, has been added to the American League roster for next week's All-Star Game in Kansas City.

Ryan, 12-11, a fastballer who leads the league with 233 strikeouts, was not on the list originally drawn up by Oakland Athletics' manager Dick Williams.

Thursday, however, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn granted both leagues permission to increase their rosters by one man to 29 players, and Williams selected Ryan.

Williams, who was hospitalized in Oakland Thursday for emergency appendectomy, said he selected his pitching staff before Ryan pitched his second no-hitter against Detroit last Sunday.

Ryan held the Baltimore Orioles hitless for seven innings Thursday, but gave up a pair of looping singles to Mark Belanger in the eighth and 10 innings and took a 3-1 loss.

Williams, whose Athletics won the 1972 World Series, probably will be replaced as All-Star manager by Chicago White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner.

"Chuck Tanner is a coach and I'll suggest to Dick that we have Tanner as manager for the game," said American League President Joe Cronin Thursday night. "But I will check with Dick first to see how he's feeling."

Williams was reported doing "very, very well" today after the operation at Merritt Hospital.

The A's team physician, Dr. Charles Hudson, performed the operation and said he would not make an estimate when the 44year-old pilot of the world champions could return to his baseball duties until after examining him today.

Cronin's office Thursday announced a list of reserves for Tuesday's classic. They are:

First base, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and John Mayberry of Kansas City; second base, Cookie Rojas of Kansas City and Dave Nelson of Texas; third base, Sal Bando of Oakland and Buddy Bell of Cleveland; shortstop, Eddie Brinkman of Detroit; catchers Thurman Munson of New York and Bill Freehan of Detroit; outfielders, Paul Blair of Baltimore, Willie Horton of Detroit and Dave May of Milwaukee.

Williams also named Pat Kelly of Chicago as a replacement for the White Sox' first baseman Dick Allen, who is recovering from a leg injury. Allen had been named to the starting lineup as a result of balloting by baseball fans.

Mays equals star record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays, a last-minute addition to the National League squad, will be captain of the team for Tuesday night's All-Star Game in Kansas City.

National League President Chub Feeney announced today that he and Manager Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds have added the 42-year-old New York Mets' player to the team. It will be Mays' 24th All-Star Game, tying the record held by former St. Louis Cardinals' great Stan Musial.

Anderson's other selections, completing the 29-man squad, included right fielder Bobby Bonds of San Francisco, left off the starting team selected by baseball fans despite his batting average of .304, with 25 home runs and 65 runs batted in.

Willie Davis and Manny Mota of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Ron Fairly of Montreal and Bob Watson of Houston were the other outfielders selected by Anderson.

The other All-Stars named today were catcher Ted Simmons of St. Louis and infielders Nate Colbert of San Diego, Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati, Darrell Evans and Dave Johnson of Atlanta, Joe Torre of St. Louis and Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers and Reds have the most All-Stars on this year's National League team, five apiece.

Anderson's coaches Tuesday night will be managers Gene Mauch of Montreal and Bill Virdon of Pittsburgh.

Big Red at work

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — An old face was a new arrival at the St. Louis Cardinals' National Football League training camp at Illinois State University here Thursday.

Tight end Jim McFarland, who had played out his option with the team and became a free agent May 1, joined the players already in camp for the first full day of practice after signing his 1973 contract.

McFarland, a backup for tight end Jackie Smith, broke a collarbone in training last season and saw limited duty in 10 games with the Big Red, mostly on special teams.

The team held heavy contact drills during the afternoon session, concentrating on blocking techniques and some passing drills. About half the session took place during a heavy downpour of rain.

The club also announced its first cuts of the camp, dropping four players who failed to pass Wednesday's physical examination. Released were defensive back Jeff Allen, defensive end Danny Sanspree, wide receiver Earl de la Roche and running back Frank Miller.

Thomas traded

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The anchor of the Dallas Cowboys Doomsday Defense, Bob Lilly, has rejoined the team at their training camp here.

A team spokesman said the perennial All-Pro would begin workouts today.

Lilly, a defensive standout with the Cowboys since they joined the National Football League as an expansion club in 1960, reported to the camp Thursday after the Cowboys' general manager, Tex Schramm, swayed the 12-year veteran from retiring.

In another key development Thursday, controversial running back Duane Thomas of the San Diego Chargers was traded to the Washington Redskins for two high future draft selections. The transaction ended a tempestuous year for the 1972 Super Bowl hero who was traded from Dallas to San Diego one year ago but never played a game for the Chargers.

Thomas was suspended Monday by San Diego Coach Harland Svare after the player reported late to camp. He was reinstated Wednesday following an undisclosed fine but Svare decided to trade him after Thomas displayed a lackluster performance during Thursday's drill.

Lilly said he had no problems with his two-year, $700,000 contract, and added that he had had doubts about his physical condition, "back ... knee, but they have given me no trouble," he added. The former Texas Christian University All-American was reportedly unhappy with the team morale. Earlier this season he and other veteran players, Dave Manders, Lee Roy Jordan, Craig Morton, Jethro Pugh and Pat Toomay and the Cowboy management had differences of opinion on salary negotiations.

Manders, the Cowboys' center, retired, and defensive end Pat Toomay signed Monday afternoon. Lilly linemate, Jethro Pugh, and linebacker Lee Roy Jordan still had not signed contracts. Quarterback Craig Morton still has not signed either. He's not in camp.

Elsewhere, veteran tight end Marv Fleming of the Miami Dolphins ended his holdout but running back Larry Brown of the Washington Redskins continued his.

Fleming, who had been fined $200 a day for the eight days he had held out, walked into the Dolphins' training camp after signing a lucrative three-year contract.

That left all-pro safety Jake Scott as the only player missing from the National Football League champions' camp because of a contract dispute.

Brown, the NFL's most valuable player in 1972, was absent from the Redskins' Carlisle, Pa. training site for the fourth day Thursday, and Washington Coach George Allen emphasized that the $300-a-day fine he has levied on Brown would stick.

Brown says he has not reported because the Redskins have declined to discuss a future contract with him, after his present pact expires at the end of this year. Allen said he wouldn't discuss the matter, while Skins President Edward Bennett Williams has said he would not negotiate with Brown or his agent until the star running back reports to training camp.

Retired actor enjoys writing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A decade ago when he played the intrepid skipper of the Tiki on television's "Adventures in Paradise," Gardner McKay received more fan mail than any other 20th Century Fox actor.

Since then, McKay, 39, has lived as a recluse in the Sahara Desert and the jungles of Venezuela. Today he is finally doing what he's always wanted to do: write plays.

McKay is putting the finishing touches on "Me," a play he wrote and directed for television's Public Broadcasting System. The play, about a retarded, spastic child and his family, is to be shown next winter.

McKay says acting never was his real interest.

"My acting was a fluke," he claims. "It was something that wandered by. It was like I opened an invitation by mistake intended for someone else."

He says that, when "Paradise" was canceled in 1963, he turned down a $200,000 movie offer.

He retired to desert and jungle to shed the popularity television had given him.

In the desert, McKay was an adventurer and rode with the Egyptian camel corps. By the time he got to the South American jungle, he was writing.

First, it was "How to Eat a Piranha Before It Eats You," for Sports Illustrated. But soon he was mailing manuscripts to California. Five years ago, he returned to Los Angeles. Since then, he has directed several of his plays in local workshop theaters.

At his Spanish-style home on a hillside here, shelves and closets are filled with McKay's writings. But he is reluctant to talk about his work. He says he has finished three full plays and 25 short plays and is working on a book of short stories.
